Veridos Protects Identities

The expert for worldwide government solutions

Personal identity in a globalized world

Today's globalized world is fast, mobile, and highly virtualized. We now expect access to everything anytime, anywhere.

However, this requires fast, reliable personal identification and verification. Border control agents, for example, have to clear more travelers through checkpoints than ever before. In e-voting, voter identification is essential to preventing electoral fraud. Furthermore, in e-government processes, authorities must be able to quickly verify citizens' identities beyond a doubt. In short, security remains a major concern in all areas of public life, both nationally and internationally.

The Challenge

Governments thus face a major challenge: to reliably identify citizens and travelers and effectively protect them from the threat of identity theft and fraud.

Luckily, they can draw on a wide variety of identity protection products, systems, and solutions – from long-lived counterfeit-proof identity documents and highly secure systems for handling personal data and biometrics to efficient applications for e-government, border control, and e-voting.

Governments need reliable partners in order to acquire secure identity documents and solutions that are fit for global use. Document development, production, personalization, issuance, and verification as well as secure identity management require decades of experience, profound technological and logistics know-how, and close familiarity with government processes.

The Solution

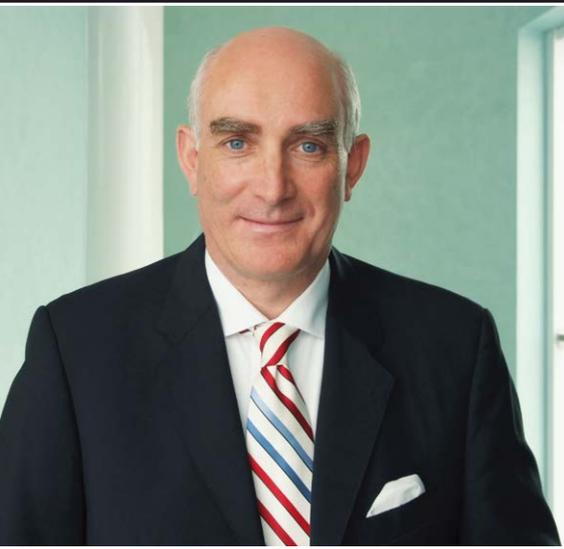

Very few companies fit this profile well enough to globally supply secure identity documents and the systems and solutions required to manage them.

Veridos combines the deep experience of two highly regarded specialists for secure government solutions: Bundesdruckerei GmbH and Giesecke & Devrient GmbH – both well known for their extensive technological expertise and a well-established position on the global stage.

Veridos is a versatile, reliable one-stop supplier of dependable, high-performance ID solutions – from personalized documents such as passports, ID cards, driver's licenses, and healthcare cards to end-to-end system solutions for data acquisition, personalization, and issuance to verification, border control, authentication, and mobile e-government.

The company: Veridos – combined expertise

“Veridos is a full-service provider of state-of-the-art ID solutions and a reliable partner for governments around the globe.” Hans-Wolfgang Kunz, CEO Veridos GmbH

Veridos is a joint venture between two of Germany’s best-known providers of secure government solutions. Berlin-based Bundesdruckerei GmbH and Munich-based Giesecke & Devrient GmbH have joined forces to create a high-powered company that specializes in developing, designing, producing, and implementing future-proof ID system solutions.

Veridos has around 400 employees in Berlin and Munich and at its international subsidiaries. Its production activities draw deeply on the capabilities of both parent companies. Passports and ID documents are made at various Veridos plants worldwide.

Successful Collaboration

Bundesdruckerei GmbH and Giesecke & Devrient GmbH successfully collaborated on several national and international projects long before establishing Veridos GmbH. Giesecke & Devrient GmbH, for example, supplies the electronic components for German personal ID cards, while Bundesdruckerei produces and personalizes the cards.
